NINETY-SIX HOURS ONLY INTERVENE

Enthusiasm Reaching High Level At McGill.

RESULT UNCERTAIN.

Break In Training Proving Beneficial For the University Team.

With the play-off between McGill and Varsity at Kingston only four days off, enthusiasm in the big struggle between these two old rivals for the 1920 championship honors in the Intercollegiate series is evoking the keenest enthusiasm among the supporters of the Red and White, and it is a certainty that when the tickets for the game are put on sale this afternoon by J. Lalanne, secretary of the Students' Council, there will be a big rush of students to take advantage of the offer afforded the undergraduates of having first choice for seats for the struggle. No less keen is the interest being manifested by the graduates and other supporters of Shaughnessy's squad, and it is safe to conjecture that there will be many coaches full of loyal supporters of the team when the specials pull out from the Grand Trunk station on Saturday morning bound for the Queen's lair, which is to be the scene of the mighty battle for this season's title. Eleven hundred seats have been allotted to both McGill and Varsity, and there is little question but that the Red and White backers will have bought up their share at the Union before Friday evening.

Speculation over the result of the match is rife, and generally it is conceded that the struggle will be one of the closest and hardest fought ever witnessed on an intercollegiate gridiron. Less than two weeks ago the same two squads fought it out on the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium here with McGill being returned victorious by a score of 7 to 3. The game was one of the most stubbornly contested seen on a local field in years, and fully demonstrated that the two teams were about equal in strength. McGill had the best of the play during the struggle, although the superiority was not marked. With the addition of Hobbs and Westman to the Blue and White line-up in the coming battle, Varsity will field a stronger combination than that which faced McGill two weeks before, although Cassell's squad will be slightly handicapped after having played

BASKETBALLERS' SECOND PRACTICE

Intercollegiate Aspirants To Hold Workout To-Night.

This evening at seven o'clock the Intercollegiate aspirants will hold their second practice of the present season. At Monday's practice, although the old McGill spirit was prevalent, the number of candidates was very small.

To-night it is hoped that all the men who have played basketball before will be out. It does not necessarily follow that because a man made the team last year that he will be playing on it again this year, nor that because a man has not played Intercollegiate Basketball before that he may not play this year.

At Monday's practice the following old standbys were out, showing flashes of mid season form: Ackman, Laishley, Gratin, Davis and Hay. Next week the squad will be augmented by "Bones" Little and Lou Kern, who are at present turning out with the Rugby squad.

The only member of last year's squad who is missing this year is Lorne Montgomery, the stellar defence man. It may be seen that our prospects for carrying off the championship are extremely bright.

The club hopes that both Van Wagner and Art Walsh will be marking out with the squad to-night. In these two coaches the club has obtained two of the best men in the East, and it is now up to the players to turn out.

Another thing which will arouse interest in the University is the fact that the club, following the example of the Hockey Club, is planning a tour during the Christmas vacation, in

Swimmers Show Splendid Form Under Coach
Vernot.

Yesterday the water polo squad had the snappiest practice of the season, due to the fact that our new honorary coach, Mr. Ed. Vernot, was in charge. The men put into effect new plays which should be of great help in the coming games. Mr. Vernot will be present at all the practices from now on, so that team work should be greatly improved.

The new men in the squad are rapidly getting into form and showing a knowledge of the game which ought to warrant their being given a try-out in the near future. McKindsey, a newcomer, is showing good form in the nets. Don Foss, of the Track Club, is shaping up as a defence player.

The intermediate team will meet the Nationals in the Cherrier Street bath to-night, and any who care to lend their support to our team on their first appearance away from home waters, would be of great encouragement to the men.

Line-up of Intermediate team:
Goal—W. Laishley.
Defence—R. W. Bastable, Owens.
Forwards—M. Bruker, L. Winter, R. S. Wade.

TICKETS ON SALE.

Tickets for the Championship Rugby game between McGill and Varsity squads at Kingston on Saturday will be on sale at the Union this afternoon, between the hours of four and six when the students of the University will be given the first chance to purchase seats for the big struggle. On Thursday afternoon between the same two hours the pasteboards will be sold to graduates, while at the same time on Friday the general public will be given an opportunity to buy reserved seats for the game. Simultaneously with the purchase of the ground tickets, those intending to make the trip to the Limestone City will be enabled to obtain accommodation on the special trains which will convey the Red and White supporters to the scene of the big tussle. An agent of the railway company will be present at the Union to sell transportation to the spectators bound for the championship tilt. Members of the first and second teams may obtain their tickets for the game after 2.00 p.m. to-day.

James Lalanne, secretary of the Students' Council, has announced that no reservations will be made over the telephone, and that only cash payments will be accepted for tickets and transportation, which can not be exchanged. Tickets will be $1.50 for reserved seats, 75 cents for rush seats, while the railway transportation will cost $12.05 return.

COMMITTEE SELECTED.

Authorities Hope To Secure
Considerable Amount in This Way.

At the suggestion that there are many undergraduates at present in the University who are desirous of subscribing to the present Centennial Endowment Campaign for Old McGill, the president of the Students' Council has appointed the following committee to present the situation to the student body:

Chairman—Keith Hutchison.
Science—Donald Macfarlane.
Medicine—Hammy Hamilton.
Law—Billy Lighthall.

Arts—Amaron.
Commerce—Bob O'Meara.

Dentistry—Hamilton Stillwell.

Theological Colleges—DeWitt Scott.

R.V.C.—Undergraduate President.

Macdonald—Undergrad. President.

As the purposes of the Campaign are too well known to require further description, the committee will endeavor to give every student an official subscription card and leave the actual collection of these cards in the hands of each class president, who will collect and distribute these cards to his own class and report direct to his faculty representative on the main committee. These cards are to be signed, no funds to be collected by class representatives.

The committee suggest as the easiest way to subscribe is by paying five annual payments of any amount—nothing is too small or too large—the first payment falling due on January 1, 1921, and thereafter on successive January 1 until completed. In this way a small subscription of $5.00 will amount to $25.00, and so represent a nice subscription in all.

We feel that there are many men in college who could afford such a small amount to help his Alma Mater in the greatest campaign yet planned. The students are reaping the benefits of this great work. Surely they are willing to help in a more substantial manner than mere words.

This Campaign is the only means afforded to undergraduates to subscribe to the fund.

The commencement has been successful, but everybody's help will be

JUNIORS GRAPPLE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Will Meet Grand Trunks in Final Quebec Football
Union Fixture.

McGill Juniors will play off for the championship of the Junior Quebec Rugby Football Union for the 1920 season when they clash with the Grand Trunk fourteen on Saturday last Saturday the Grand Trunk squad defeated St. Lamberts in the semi-final for titular honors and qualified to meet the Red and White thirds for the championship. While final arrangements for the game on Saturday have not been completed, it is expected that the tilt will be staged at the National grounds.

Members of the Third team were keen to have the game delayed that they might travel to Kingston to witness the play-off between McGill and Varsity for the Intercollegiate championship, but owing to the lateness of the season it was considered advisable to remain behind and finish up their schedule in the Q.R.F.U., as it was felt that to postpone the game meant that the play-off for honors in the league would not materialize this season.

Captain Eddie Crain and his cohorts have been training faithfully since they piled through Bishops' College in the semi-finals, and will take the field on Saturday against the Trunks in the best condition for a hard game. The Grand Trunk squad showed itself a sturdy aggregation in its game against the St. Lamberts team last Saturday, and can be counted on to give the McGill squad a good run for top position when these two aggregations meet for the final match of the year.

FROM WAR TO PEACE

YOU hundreds of McGill men who were overseas, learned that, with all due respect for the theory of the late N. Bonaparte, an army really moves on its boots. If the old "Kitcheners" happened to be ill-fitting or of poor quality the mud crept into your very soul with every step and it became, indeed, a "lovely" war.

So it is in civvy life, back here at college—the iron clads are discarded for footwear of more gentle nature, but they still must fit and be of good quality if you are to get the most out of work and play.

Who can give proper attention to a lecture with a poorly-made boot constantly short-circuiting one's train of thought?

Who can appear at one's best at any sort of social function without foot comfort and the consciousness of being well-shod?

In Regal Boots are embodied the three essential qualities—fit, wear and elegance, and as for prices—here are FACTS—Our stock has been cut from $3 to $5 per pair which presents to you values which you will agree, after investigation, cannot be duplicated in Montreal or elsewhere.

"MCGILL QUILTS"

There has been more bad feeling generated between McGill and Toronto University by the newspapers of Toronto this year than would ordinarily have been the case in a decade. No one would suggest that the papers in question represent the opinion of the Varsity students but, nevertheless, the articles have much of the desired effect in creating a feeling of veiled hostility between the two most prominent universities of the Dominion.

Under ordinary circumstances no attention would be paid to this kind of "yellow journalism" but when it is repeated on several occasions and copied throughout Canada it is high time that they be checked in their activities. Invariably, when the McGill teams have travelled to Toronto this season they have been confronted with some publications of that city in which facts were misrepresented in order to create a false impression about the state of affairs existing here.

When the Track team went to Toronto to compete for the Intercollegiate championship, they were surprised to learn from a weekly publication that they had suffered a defeat on their own track last year. Without any attempt to veil the facts, the paper boldly stated that McGill was especially anxious to redeem herself after undergoing a trouncing on her own grounds the previous season. When the error was brought to their attention they made no attempt to correct the false impression given in the article.

Of late, much attention has been given to the refusal of McGill to contend in the play-off for the Dominion rugby championship. This proved to be welcome material to the newspapers in question at the present time when they are forced to rely on "filler" in order to have their sheets present a normal appearance.

A particular offender has been the Toronto Globe. In an article entitled "McGill Quits" that paper intimated that McGill was afraid to enter the Dominion championship finals. They stated that as a result of McGill's decision the Argonauts, of Toronto, would not continue training. While we are naturally pleased at the implied tribute to the McGill team, inasmuch as they seem to infer that our team is due to win the championship, we wish to protest against the offensive tenor of the article in general. Another issue of the paper mentions that many of the supporters of the Varsity team think that McGill should resign from the Intercollegiate league if they are not willing to play off for the championship of Canada.

We are getting rather tired of the continued adverse criticism in the Toronto papers about our so called "quitting" in the Dominion series. It has been the policy of McGill for some years past to restrict her rugby activities entirely to the Intercollegiate series.

When the Intercollegiate Union was first formed, and for a short period after that time, rugby needed every encouragement in order to make it popular with the public. McGill was willing to do her part for the benefit of the game and, as a result, she favored the entry of the Intercollegiate champions into a series that would determine the rugby championship of Canada.

At the present time the sport is well established and does not need any artificial encouragement in order to bring it more prominently before the sporting public. If the teams in the various leagues operating throughout the Dominion are not receiving enough attention from the sport loving public it is entirely their own fault.

McGill is only in the rugby game as an Intercollegiate sport and no amount of criticism by the press will induce them to change their minds on the subject. While we are anxious to get enough money during the season to make our college activities pay for themselves, we are not in the game to get as much as possible out of the public. This seems to be the attitude of the clubs who are so anxious for the post-season series and we do not feel that they should receive any encouragement from the college teams.

If the papers which are commenting so openly on our poor sportsmanship would take the trouble to read an editorial note in the "Ottawa Citizen" of the past week they might appreciate the spirit in which McGill enters the rugby series. The paper states that the real reason for a college team being in competitive athletics is to develop a feeling of true sportsmanship among the students. They do not enter a series with the sole idea of winning, but rather to play their hardest and accept either defeat or victory as college men should. As the papers of a certain section of the country seem to be

SUCCESSFUL MEET OF FENCING CLUB

Attendance Necessitates the Holding of Practices in Two Groups.

New members are still flocking to join the Fencing branch of the B. W. and F., which held its regular practice yesterday afternoon. There are now no less than forty active participants, a number considerably larger than have ever before taken up this branch of the sport at McGill.

Owing to this unprecedented attendance, it was found necessary to take the class in two groups, as the accommodation provided in the basement of the Union is somewhat inadequate. After instructing the newcomers, Mr. Raimondi took some of the old members in hand for a brisk work-out. The latter still show the effects of their lack of practice during the summer months, but should soon be in shape for regular work.

By arrangement with the officials of the Union, a number of towels have been procured, and these may be rented by members of the club for the nominal sum of five cents. In accordance with an announcement made following the last practice of the club, an attempt will be made to secure some equipment for those members who have had previous experience in sabre work. There is still room for new members, but they would do well to join immediately, as it takes some time to get in proper training.

DO YOU FEEL COLD? TRY SOME OF THESE.

Is your rooming house janitor conserving on coal? Cheer up—we come forward with the following little suggestions:

A pet cat, be it ever so moth-eaten, makes an effective foot-warmer.

Sheets of newspaper placed between the bed-clothes tend to keep out the night air.

Over-ventilation should be refrained from.

Electric curling irons, toasters and grills make dangerous but effective bed-warmer.

Or an internal bath of wood-alcohol will put you where you won't have to worry about being cold any more.

men who are in any way connected with Arts '19, and who are interested in the re-union of the class, are asked to give in their names to E. D. Mills, of the Faculty of Medicine, or John Ritchie, of the Faculty of Law. A re-union dinner will be held in the Union in the near future.

DELTA SIGMA SOCIETY.

The third meeting of the Year will be held this afternoon at 4 p.m. in the R. V. C. Common Room. The meeting will take the form of a debate between the Freshman and Sophomore years. The subject of debate is whether private or public school is to be preferred. The Sophomores will uphold the public school. All out Sophs and Freshies to uphold your teams!

And Seniors and Juniors to pick up crumbs of wisdom from the wise!

SWIMMERS AND NON-SWIMMERS.

Arrangements have been made whereby the students of the R. V. C. may have the use of the Y. W. C. A. tank for two days a week during the months of November, December, February, March April and May. Hours for swimming will be arranged for as soon as possible.

It is hoped that there will be an Inter Year Swimming Meet. The meet held last year was a splendid success, but should a meet be held this year it should prove even more of a success, as we have so much more opportunity to practice.

There will be a Beginners' Class for those who do not know how to swim and wish to learn.

The list will not be taken down until noon to-day, but anyone who has not signed up by that time will be unable to obtain a student's ticket should they wish to join later in the year. The price of the tickets is $3.

Think of it! Two swims a week all term, except in January.

R. V. C. INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL.

A three day tournament is being negotiated for to take place in Kingston at Queen's University. The question of whether Varsity will enter in this or not is yet to be settled. No league has been formed this year, but plans are being made for one in the future. Exemption from lectures is being granted by the authorities to girls on the College Team as arranged in the case of the men.

The two games with Macdonald College are to take place before Christmas.

MOCK TRIALS REVIVE IN THE LAW FACULTY

Sensational Poison Case To Be Tried Thursday.

MUCH INTEREST.

Famed Medical Specialists
Will Give Evidence Before
Judge Greenshields.

Great interest is being shown by the Law students in the revival of the Mock Court. This institution, which existed before the war, was neglected, and the students of last year decided to resume this important factor in legal education. The first case is to take place in the Law Building to-morrow night, at eight o'clock. The circumstances surrounding this murder are as follows: Nellie Smith (nee Allen), left parentless at an early age, enters the dangerous life of a circus performer. She carries this on for some time, and her talent being recognized as a dancer, she becomes one of a well-known vaudeville circuit and then as a cabaret performer. Well liked and quite sociable, everybody knew her, and many women cursed her for having drawn away their husbands. James Smith, a young man of independent means, a person on whom his father and certain relatives depended for necessities of life, became a frequenter of the "Be-Bee Cabaret," and, as was natural, he too was caught in the admiring throng of Nellie.

Society was startled shortly afterwards by the quick and sudden marriage of James Smith and Nellie Allen. They moved into a nice residence. She seems to have given up her former life of dancing and settled down to be the good wife and to forget her former sins.

This took place in 1916. The happy couple were blessed by a bumper boy. Suddenly the city was startled by the news of the death of Smith on September 15, 1920. Before this time he appears to have lost his former steady habits and become a victim of "Hiram Walker." The evidence at the preliminary hearing shows that the married life of the couple was, lately, a most unhappy one, she often tried to be separated from him, but on account of the child, did not do so. She seems to have caused the withdrawal of his affections and philanthropic characteristics from his relatives, and, although to all the death was a surprise, which passed immediately away, the deceased's relatives became suspicious of this sudden death.

The will left everything to Mrs. J. Smith, nothing to anyone else. Suspicion dwelling in the minds of the relatives, a post mortem examination was ordered, and the great specialist, Dr. Taylor, with the assistance of Dr. Stevenson, examined the remains, and the former's opinion was that death was due to the effects of a large quantity of Oxalic Acid. A coroner's inquest being immediately called, Mrs. Smith was arrested and later committed to stand trial by the magistrate.

Evidence of Mr. Rowton, the well-known chemist, is that he sold the accused a bottle of Oxalic Acid, which adds greatly to the perilous position she is in. She can in no way show where this poison is, and many other suspicious circumstances present themselves which show that Mr. James Smith was undoubtedly the victim of a fiendish crime on the part of his wife.

The case will be argued before MR. JUSTICE GREENSHIELDS On Thursday, Nov. 18, at 11 p.m.

NINETY-SIX HOURS ONLY INTERVENE

Queen's last Saturday, while the Red and White squad enjoyed a well-earned rest before settling down again in earnest in preparation for the coming momentous match.

That the break in training proved a great benefit to the Red and White squad has been clearly evidenced by the manner with which the players are going through their training under Coach Shaughnessy. Yesterday afternoon the first term were at it again even harder than before, and the way the men were working through the signal practice, and the speed with which they hit the line brought a warm glow to the hearts of the half-frozen enthusiasts who were on hand sizing up the prospects. Hard ground failed to have much effect on the players, who continue to show more pep with each work-out. Every regular, with the exception of Flanagan, was on deck and ran through the signals with hardly a hitch. Several snappy plays will be unworked to consternate the Blue and White on Saturday, and the way they were working yesterday, they should serve to do the trick.

Flanagan is not in the best of condition and is being nursed along for the game, and should be a certainty to start. "Boo" Anderson, who has been suffering from the effects of his gruelling game against "Varsity" ten days ago, has fully recovered and was out on the job again yesterday for the first time, and will be absolutely ready for his usual display on Saturday. The remainder of the team are in good shape, and no chances are being taken on having any serious injuries on the frozen campus during the next few days before the game, so that when the Red and White faces "Varsity" in the crucial battle it should be an even stronger and better drilled squad than that which took the measure of Cassell's players in the last match.

Here tribute must be paid to the McGill second team, which, although it has finished its league schedule for the season, has shown the Old Spirit, and turns out regularly each day with the seniors to give them a scrimmage work-out. Yesterday, Marsh Kern had his cohorts all on the job, and they gave Shaughnessy's stars a tough argument for half an hour. Even at that, the heavy line smashing of the first team proved too much, and the big plungers were breaking through for gains continually.

This afternoon and Thursday the teams will carry on with the scrimmage practices, and on Friday a light signal practice will be usual wind up the training for the game. The seniors will travel down on the specials on Saturday morning along with the seconds, who will form the nucleus of the big batch of rooters who will go along to help the team boost the Red and White colors to the top.

needed to bring about a successful finish to this great work.

The committee fully appreciate the difficulties of chronic poverty that are so normal in any healthy undergraduate body, yet they feel that this is a time when a great effort is not too much to expect from the men of Old McGill. Our graduates, our staff, our friends and well-wishers are doing their share, the undergraduate body must not appear backward or neglectful to help.

Every student should get a card from his class president or faculty representative, or, failing to locate these individuals, he should call at the Union, where the hall porter will have a supply for the overlooked ones.

The shortness of time makes it necessary for the move to be spontaneous on the part of all students to get their cards, fill them in and return them at once.

The returns will be reported by faculties, so see that yours is not the last.

The business men of the city will watch this fund with interest. See that they are not disappointed in McGill's contribution to its own fund.

The R.V.C. and Macdonald College are asked to take charge of their own campaigns through their Undergraduate presidents. Cards to be had on application to hall porter of the Union.

FIFTH LECTURE ON JOURNALISM

Organization of the News-Story Topic of Lecture.

In the fifth lecture on Journalism delivered by Mr. E. J. Archibald, of the Montreal Star, the lecturer devoted his time to the subject of the organization of the news-story with particular reference to what is known to newspaper men as the "lead."

Several types of the purely conventional lead were cited which can safely be used to introduce any story of medium interest. For the news item, however, which has to be served up in an attractive manner in order to attract the attention of the reading public, it is frequently necessary to adopt tactics of a slightly more subtle nature. Of these less hackneyed introductions the speaker instanced the conditional sentence and the epigrammatic or rhetorical phrase. On occasions it may even be possible to make use of a fragment of verse to excite the curiosity of the layman. If this practice is adopted by some of the would-be journalists present at the lecture, readers of these columns should not be surprised to see snatches from the poets adorning the heads of the news items.

The lecture was brought to a close with a discussion of several important mechanical details connected with the "writing-up" of news items. It is noticeable that a large proportion of those attending this series of lectures are not members of the undergraduate body. Although extension lectures are ostensibly given for the drawing together "town" and "gown," it is a pity that a larger number of students are not taking advantage of this really excellent and thoroughly practical course.

MR. STANLEY COOK SPEAKS TO COMMERCE

Activities of Montreal Board of Trade Outlined.

MANY PRESENT.

Second of Series of Meetings
Proves Unqualified Success.

The Commercial Society held a most profitable and interesting meeting in the Union last evening. Fully a hundred members were present, and not only members of the three years now in the School of Commerce, but some of last year's graduates now taking lectures in what is called a fourth year.

Mr. O'Meara opened the meeting, the minutes were read, and Mr. McCulloch was then called upon to introduce the speaker of the evening, Mr. Cook, of the Montreal Board of Trade. This Mr. McCulloch did in his genial way, and wished every success for the efforts of the Commercial Society.

Mr. Stanley Cook compared his talk to a cocktail. He deplored the students' youth and inexperience and their poor acquaintance with cocktails, for when they grow old enough there won't be any! More substantial food, he thought, would come at other meetings, he said.

Mr. Cook has had twenty-eight years' employment in the Montreal Board of Trade, and is therefore fully qualified to speak authoritatively upon the subject.

He told of its origin in the Greek city of Massilia, of which the Chamber of Commerce of Marseilles is a distinct descendant. The first charter of such a board in the United States, given by George III in 1768, antedated the first Chamber of Commerce in England.

The English are to individualistic in their views to favor such trade communism as readily as their European neighbors.

The Montreal Committee of Trade in Montreal was inaugurated the year after McGill was founded, namely in 1822. The Lachine Canal was just begun about the same time. The Hon. Peter McGill, a cousin of the founder of McGill University, is one of the charter members of that committee.

Its purpose was mainly to watch over general trade, in Montreal chiefly, and in Quebec and the Dominion in a lesser degree. Application was made to the Legislature, then sitting at Kingston, for a charter.

One of the outstanding features of the Board of Trade is that no professional man as such shall be permitted to hold membership on that board. If a man were a lawyer, and at the same time in charge of a business institution, he would not be debarred, but would be admitted by reason of his business interests.

There is a membership of two thousand on the Montreal Board of Trade, with sixteen members on an executive council. A general meeting is rarely called for the transaction of business, the Council, which is elected yearly, attending to all that.

Mr. Cook then gave a brief outline of the activities of the Montreal Board of Trade in the past and what it is doing at the present time.

It looks after the interests of Montreal merchants abroad. The floating dry-dock at Montreal was the result of direct influence of the Board of Trade. When the Long Sault Rapids were proposed as a power source for the United States, it was that body which stopped negotiations.

McGill and Laval even come under the consideration of the Board of Trade as regards grants to those Universities. The Tramways franchise, a new charter for the city, Canadian-West Indian trade, the entry of bills into the Dominion House for a Dominion-wide Insolvency Act, an Act, too, as regards Arbitration and Contracts. These are only a few of the phases of Trade and Commerce with which the Montreal organization deals.

Mr. Cook was very patient with all curious students wishing to know more about the subject, and brought to light some very interesting facts about the Board of Trade and its composition. The Corn Exchange, now incorporated with the Montreal Board of Trade, still carries its own charter and power of arbitration. Any number of Boards of Trade may be formed to attend to any particular phase of industry, and this is in fact what is done in many instances. The sailing of ships was a special feature of the work of the Montreal Board of Trade.

Mr. Werry tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. Cook for his instructive address and Mr. Ogilvy ably seconded him. From the unanimous applause it was fairly evident that the talk of the evening was suitable to everyones taste.

Dr. Villard and Mr. Leavitt, last years president, and Mr. Sugars, contributed their thanks to Mr. Cook for his address, and spoke a few of their own thoughts regarding the

GRIDIRON GRIST

(By "FIELD GOAL")

In another column of to-day's issue of the "Daily" the outburst of the "Toronto Globe" is reported and comment made. In 1914 when the play-off with Varsity was being staged the same sort of cry was heard from the Toronto Sporting writers. A controversy and word war was waged in the press for the whole week before the final game. McGill was firm then in her stand on this question of a play-off for the Dominion Championship with the winners in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union. The writer of these articles quotes from one of his "Gridiron Grist" articles written in 1914 when this same question of a play-off for the Dominion Championship came up.

"It is absolutely necessary for the men to get down to work as soon as possible after the regular season is over. If they were to play for the Dominion honors it would mean that the season would be extended one week at least, and perhaps two, as there are three leagues to play for the title, and consequently two games must be played to decide the final winner. The Christmas exams, come very soon after the close of the football season as it is and if the season were to be lengthened by two weeks there would be scarcely any time at all between football and these exams. It was two seasons ago (1912), in Ottawa, the day that McGill won the Intercollegiate championship for the first time in six years that the club decided that they would not compete for the Grey Cup, emblematic of the Dominion Championship. It was then the twenty-first of November, and if the season was to be extended for two more weeks, as was very likely if the team entered for the Canadian Championship, football would have lasted into December, which would have been fatal to the chances which some of the team possessed of getting through their examinations. When once the decision was arrived at it was very easy to keep it up, and the Red and White has always been quite satisfied with the way things have worked out since they first announced that they would not go after the Guy Cup." ("McGill Daily," Nov. 5th, 1914.)

This is just as true about the situation now as it was in 1914. Toronto Sporting writers are apparently anything but "sporting" when they resort to such remarks as those of the "Globe" on Monday last. "Some of the adherents of the team (Toronto Varsity) even go so far as to declare that the Montreal University should quit intercollegiate football if it is not prepared to engage in the National Championship." ("Toronto Globe," Nov. 15th, 1920.) We suggest that the writer who penned such piffle would have a hard time to locate the "adherents of the team" that he mentions. There may be some feeling about McGill not playing off for the Dominion honors; but we feel fairly positive that there is no feeling that McGill should "quit" intercollegiate football if the Red and White were to drop out. In fact, the mere suggestion is ridiculous and the statement not to be taken seriously. The nerve and supreme conceit behind the remark causes us to smile.

The decision of the McGill Rugby Club to fall in line with the suggestion that everything over and above expenses on Saturday be granted to Queens to help them with their new Stadium, is very commendable. A word about this addition to the buildings and grounds of the Kingston University.

The field has been built up and levelled off. Grass was sown last spring and has grown well—being very thick and heavy. There is a good cinder track being laid. The field is surrounded by a concrete wall or, at least, will be when it is finished. On the west side of the gridiron which runs North and South is the grandstand. This is of concrete and will be covered. The stand when completed will have a seating capacity of 6000. The erection of this new Stadium ought to give athletics at the Presbyterian University a great impetus.

Enthusiasm over the game on Saturday is growing every minute. The Press is trying to keep pace with the arrangements and give the fans all the information as soon as it is received. Innumerable questions are being asked by interested followers of the team both at the college and down town. Rumors of a startling nature have appeared only to disappear in the midst of more interesting football gossip.

Varsity did not come out of last Saturday's game scatheless. Carruthers, the champion hurdler and member of the Varsity squad, suffered a broken rib. Coach "Cassels" had Westman the heavy line plunger playing during most of the game but pulled him towards the end of the third quarter, sending Carruthers on in his place. The latter had been playing a few minutes when he met with the accident which caused his retirement from the game. Later, it was discovered he had broken a rib.

The "Toronto Mail and Empire" gives McKelvey of Queens great praise for his work against Varsity last Saturday:

"McKelvey undoubtedly stands out as one of the greatest punting half-backs the Canadian game has ever known. With anything like a line in front of him he would be hailed throughout two provinces as the greatest half-back of his time. As it is he takes chances which no other half would take, waiting until the very last moment to punt the ball so that his wings may have every possible chance of being in on the play when the ball descends. In addition he proved himself a line plunger of more than ordinary ability when single-handed he ripped through the Varsity line for yards three times in succession. He would make all the difference between a championship and no championship to either Varsity or McGill, and it was with this knowledge before them that the Montreal university made efforts to secure him before the opening of the season. Evans proved himself to be a shifty quarterback, not in the least adverse to doing a lot of ball carrying himself, and at least once during the contest only the wide open, all embracing arms of the sturdy "Red" prevented him from going through for a try. He had passed everyone else."

("Mail and Empire," Toronto.)

It is strange the way Toronto never misses an opportunity to take a crack at McGill. If they have no grounds for a dig at the Red and White they seem very fertile in manufacturing some. This is the first we ever heard of McKelvey having been approached with a view to his attending McGill.

Toronto although they decisively defeated the Tri-Color on Saturday last, apparently did not play perfect football. Below is a criticism of the Blue and White's football ability as shown in the game against Queens. We cannot agree with the remark about any superiority over McGill on the line and in view of the fact that McGill made their yards 10 times to Varsity's twice in the game here in Montreal on Nov. 6th, we feel we are justified in believing the Red and White considerably better on the line.

"Against the opposition that they found confronting them U. of T. played effective football, but barring the third period when they scored no less than seventeen points and played rings around the bewildered wearers of the Tri-Color, they did not perform as well as was generally expected. Perhaps they could repeat their mistakes against McGill and win, but many doubt it. Loose handling of the ball and fumbles will not benefit any when opposed to the well-trained McGill machine. But Coach Cassels and his team are not worrying. They know what is expected of them and they have every reason to believe that they will win the Intercollegiate title next Saturday. With Queens so weak they could afford to be somewhat careless—or lenient—but they will take no such liberties with the Shamken.

Relative to the play-off opinion among the beaten players is divided. Some aver that the aggressiveness and condition of the locals will offset anything in the way of new football that McGill attempts and that the superiority of the U. of T. wing line will more than make up for the kicking of the Carroll-Flanagan combination. Others leaned to the opinion that McGill would win the title again. All admitted that with "breaks" eliminated it would probably be the hardest fought and most closely contested play-off game in Intercollegiate history.

U. of T. are not a team likely to be dismayed. They are "fightin' sons o' guns," and they will never concede defeat while there is still time to play. The wing line is well drilled in quick formation play and teamwork is their specialty. The substitutes are almost as effective as are the regulars, and this means a great advantage especially on grounds which may be frost-bitten, thus causing injuries." ("Globe," Toronto.)

tioned in passing that he was himself a member of the French Chambre de Commerce, a sister organization to the Board of Trade.

Refreshments were served and an enjoyable half hour was spent over the coffee and cigars, not to mention the ice cream and cake. Some admirable music was provided by those generous spirits in Commerce who
